FUND SOURCES ARE REVEALED TO SUPERVISORS

Adams county's township road supervisors learned this morning that the state will provide increased funds for improvement of the township roads and that new legislation permits them additional tax sources to pay for their road building.

Meeting at the court house here for the 24th annual convention of the road supervisors, township auditors, assessors and tax collectors' association of the county, the supervisors heard both H. A. Thomson, secretary of the state supervisors' association and Daniel Bailey, Harrisburg, State Highway department engineer, discuss new laws relating to increased state appropriations toward building better roads within the townships.

More State Funds
Bailey described the law passed by the current legislature which provides $3,000,000 toward improvement of township roads. Both Bailey and Thomson urged the supervisors to take advantage of the new law for Adams county. Both claimed that every township in the county would be able to appropriate the counter-part funds that must be put up by the townships to obtain the state aid. Under the plan the state will pay a portion of the cost with the townships paying the remainder. The bill increases the amount of aid from the state to Adams county townships by 80 percent Thomson said.

Thomson also outlined new laws which permit township supervisors to levy a ten percent tax on tickets sold by amusement places, put a $5 per capita tax on every resident within their townships, put a one percent sales tax on the sale of properties and put a $10 tax on trailers used as residences.

In two of these new taxes the township supervisors would possibly run into some troubles with school boards, Thomson noted. If school boards have a $15 head tax levy, placing of a $5 per capita tax by the supervisors would automatically drop $5 from the tax levied by the school boards. The same thing would occur where school boards have a $10 per capita tax all based on the same law. School boards have two laws under which they can place head taxes, with one allowing a $10 head tax and the other a $5 tax. If the supervisors levy a head tax, the school boards will simply have to share with the supervisors," Thomson noted. The top figure that can be levied between the school boards and supervisors is $15.

Likewise imposition of a tax on amusement admissions would cut into the amount of tax levied by school boards, since the total can only be ten percent. When a head tax is levied, Thomson said, prior occupational taxes levied by the supervisors must be dropped.

Welcomed By Judge
Judge W. C. Sheely, welcoming the group this morning, urged them to keep their boards filled by making appointments within the legal limits.

Glenn Jacobs, president of the supervisors, appointed the following committees: Nominating, Frank Miller, Franklin township, S. F. Riser, Oxford township, Harvey F. Walter, Hamilton township; resolutions, John L. Stock, Strasburg township; G. Howard Danner, Berwick township, and Charles C. Little, Mt. Joy township.

Following a dinner at St. James Lutheran church here, the supervisors resumed their annual session this afternoon.

Naster Tells Of Quick Action On Passport With Caudle Help

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—Bert K. Naster testified today that while on parole from a federal penitentiary he received a passport to Europe within 48 hours after discussing it with his "platonic friend," T. LaMar Caudle.

Naster, a Hollywood, Fla., businessman, was called before a House ways and means subcommittee inquiring into allegations that he and another man attempted to "shake down" Abraham Teitelbaum, wealthy Chicago lawyer, for $500,000 on representations they were in cahoots with a Washington "clique" and could save him from bad troubles. Naster asked to be heard in private, but his plea was overruled.

Before getting down to Teitelbaum's story, the subcommittee went into Naster's relations with Caudle, an assistant attorney general who was fired by President Truman last month for "outside activities" incompatible with his official duties.

Teitelbaum testified last week that the shake-down pitch was made by Naster and Frank Nathan, a Pittsburgh promoter, last April and that the two told him Caudle was in a Washington "clique" with which they had connections.

Caudle and others allegedly named as in the "clique" have denied there was such a thing.

UN Believes Communists Will Not Surrender All Prisoners; Can't Agree On Any Question

Seoul, Korea, Dec. 12 (AP)—U.S. F-86 Sabre jet fighters today swept over northwest Korea but sighted none of the Communist MIG-15 jets that almost daily flock out of Manchuria.

A U.S. Fifth Air Force summary said a U.S. F-80 Shooting Star jet crashed and burned in Red territory with "no chance of pilot survival." It gave no details.

Doughboys in mist-draped hills across the front held their fire as the twilight war continued.

A half dozen patrols poked out across the hill country west of Yonchon, holding up and calling for artillery support at the first sign of Reds.

Brief Patrol Contacts
West of the Punchbowl, on the eastern front, one Red probing force of about two platoons was hurled back after a brief skirmish. Elsewhere there was little to report except brief patrol contacts in no-man's-land.

Temperatures ranged from a bone chilling 5 degrees above zero in the east to 40 above in the west.

Tuesday night seven B-29 superforts dropped 70 tons of bombs on Red troops behind the Communist front lines. Four other B-29s attacked Red Korean rail yards.

American F-86 Sabre jet pilots reported two Russian-made MIG-15 jets probably were destroyed and two others damaged Tuesday as FEAP planes mounted 945 sorties.

The air force said all Sabre jets returned safely.

INJURED TRUCK DRIVER FAINTS BEFORE MISHAP

The driver of a tractor-trailer truck traveling north on Steinwehr avenue Tuesday afternoon crashed his vehicle into a traffic light stand and a utility pole at the intersection of Steinwehr avenue and Baltimore street, when he "blacked out" at the wheel, according to a borough police report.

Police said that Donald Ellsworth Bowersox, Camp Hill R. 1, had just made a delivery at Trostle's Dress Manufacturing plant on Queen street, and in getting back into the cab of his truck had slammed the "ab door" and caught his fingers in the door.

In spite of the pain from this injury, he drove his tractor-trailer away from the dress plant, but approaching the intersection, fainted. The truck continued across the intersection and struck two poles.

Treated At Hospital
Bowersox was taken to the Warner hospital for treatment. The standard for the traffic light was broken and borough officials estimated the cost of repairs at approximately $15. Damages to the truck were negligible.

The crash put the traffic lights at Baltimore street and Steinwehr avenue out of order. A police officer was stationed at the intersection during the rush hour late Tuesday afternoon and again early this morning to direct traffic. Repairs are being made by the Swam Electric company of Hanover, which installed the traffic lights.

An automobile operated by Samuel S. McNair, Gettysburg R. 2, crashed into the rear of a Railway Express truck operated by William Gilbert on Steinwehr avenue at 2:45 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, according to another police report. Damage to the car was estimated at $50. There was no damage to the truck, police said. No one was injured.

PRESENT PLANS

Stratton street crossing here.

The signals, K. L. Muse and W. B. Lee, of the Hagerstown office of the Western Maryland, said, will be similar to those erected last year at the Carlisle street crossing. The Western Maryland will install and maintain the flashing light signals if the PUC will give its approval, they said.

Muse, signal and telephone engineer for the railroad, said that there are approximately 17 switching movements per day within the circuit lengths of the proposed lights. Ten of these are of five minute durations and five of lesser length. However, he added, circuits will be provided so that the flashing signal will not appear if the trains are merely within the area and do not plan to cross the intersection.

Present manual protection at the crossing, watchmen, are on duty 10½ hours a day. The flashing signal would give 24-hours a day protection to the crossing. While only one accident has occurred at the crossing during the past five years, one on November 13, 1951, Muse said he felt the flashing light signal would tend to prevent any future accidents there.

Cost of the installation of the lights was estimated by Muse at $10,500 and maintenance costs at $300 per year. The railroad, he said, will pay all of the installation and maintenance costs. At the present time, according to Lee, the cost of maintaining watchmen at the crossing is $6,944.52 per year. Lee is division engineer for the railroad.

Reports Traffic Survey

Cars approaching the crossing from the north at a distance of 100 feet can see only 35 feet to the east and 37 feet to the west. When 50 feet from the crossing, Lee said, drivers can see only 53 feet toward the east and 76 feet west along the railroad tracks. Those approaching from the south can see, when 100 feet away from the crossing, only 46 feet toward the east along the railroad and 41 feet to the west.

A traffic survey made November 23 and 24, Lee said, showed an average of 11 freight and 12 shifting movements across the Stratton street crossing per day. The average daily traffic across the railroad includes 1,502 autos, 287 trucks, one bus, 36 bicycles and 626 pedestrians. Attorneys Franklin R. Bigham and grocer, won a third place in a nationwide contest conducted for grocers throughout the United States by the Pillsbury flour company.

Gilbert won third place in a Class 3 competition for grocers in smaller communities, and will receive a Lord Elgin wrist watch as his reward.

The contest, which attracted more than a million grocers, pitted their knowledge of merchandising displays against the opinion of experts in the field. Pictures of 12 merchandising displays were sent the grocers and they were asked to rate the displays, one through 12, on the ability of the displays to sell merchandise. The grocers were judged on how close their decision came to the decision reached by a number of advertising experts.

Impressive York High Quint Defeats Warrior Cagers 56-34

A speedy, veteran York high basketball team ran true to predictions here Tuesday evening by up-ending the Gettysburg high courtmen 56-34 before one of the largest first-night crowds in years.

More than a hundred fans stood at the ends of the court with all of the stands packed. York was supported by a large delegation.

Coach Don Cockley's outfit presented a speedy ball-hawking group with accurate shooting ability. Hal Brown, all-state ace, was held to nine points but his floor work and all-around playing stamped him as the best of the invaders.

The Warriors played well at spots but lost the ball many times on steals when they attempted to dribble through the tight Bearcat defense.

Fiscal Sets Pace

Scoring honors for the game went to "Skip" Fiscal who connected for 15 points despite playing only part of the game. He hit the hoop for 11 tallies in the last period.

The score was close for the first six minutes of play before the visitors pulled in front to maintain a comfortable margin the rest of the way. Rohrbach sank a goal to open the scoring and Williams tied the score with a long shot after a minute of action. Another one-hander by Rohrbach was followed by free tosses by Harriel and Bream to create another tie. Smith and Swope exchanged goals before Brown landed a foul and his first goal. A pair of goals by Brown and foul by Zinn gave York a 12-7 lead at the quarter.

York hiked its margin to 24-13 at half time with four leads contributing goals. Fiscal and Harriel tallied the only goals for the Forney-men. Throughout the third and final periods York enjoyed an ever-increasing lead. Both coaches used their entire squads during the final stanza.

Jayvees Lose

Ross Sachs' scrappy reserves gave a good account of themselves in the preliminary before bowing 36-28. York's height and weight proved too much beneath the hoops which gave them possession much of the time and subsequently more tossing opportunities. The locals led 15-12 at half time but yielded 15 points in the third frame which decided the issue.

On Friday the Warriors will attempt to halt their two-game losing streak when they play at Red Lion.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Dec. 12 (AP)—About the time you get thoroughly fed up with college sports along comes a little thing like a note from Dick Hightower to restore some of your faith. . . . Writing "thank you" notes is an old custom among Southern Methodist U. athletes who are picked for "all" teams and Dick, who only made second-string on the All-America, is no exception. . . . The odds are that he devoted most of his letter to a plug for teammate Bill Forester. . . . Bill, a 220-pound defensive tackle, doubles as offensive fullback when he's needed and Hightower tells how he scored two important touchdowns against Arkansas and later intercepted a pass against Baylor to set up a touchdown which he made himself. . . . Says Dick: "Bill x x x is one of the greatest players I have ever seen. I think that next season he will be the country's outstanding line man." . . . When a kid thinks enough of a teammate to write that, they must both be good.

SPORTS BEFORE YOUR EYES

Tab Bob Margarita, Harvard freshman coach, as a possible replacement for Clipper Smith at Lafayette. . . . And some folks are wondering if it was more than a social call when Roy Clagston, North Carolina State athletic director, dropped in to visit Lehigh's Bill Leckony. Roy was Bill's coach at St. Lawrence U. . . . Joe DiMaggio, retiring full of aches and pains at the age of 37, collected $704,769.71 from the Yankees in 13 years. . . . When Gene Tunney retired at 30 in 1928, he could display check for an even million bucks which he received for just one fight. . . . Actually Gene's take from the second Dempsey battle was $990,445 but he gave Tex Rickard the difference just to get that check in round figures.

CANNERS LOSE TO GREYHOUNDS

A last period rally was not enough as the Biglerville high cagers lost to Shippensburg Tuesday evening on the Biglerville floor 36-27.

Shippensburg led from the start but was threatened in the last frame when Coach Dick Allison's Cannners went on a mild scoring spree good for 11 tallies.

The defeat was the second in a row for Biglerville who next meet Scotland on the Canner court Friday night.

The Biglerville reserves dropped the preliminary game 34-19.

Bullets Oppose Albright Tonight

This evening at 8 o'clock the Gettysburg college cagers will go after their third victory in as many starts when they entertain Albright on the college floor.

The Lions, coached by Eddie Gulian, former Bullet athlete, are led by Captain Gerry Potts, a six-foot five-inch center.

Coach "Hen" Bream is expected to stick to his same lineup although the showing of a number of other squad members recently may bring a change.

PROBLEMS FACE EDDIE STANKY

St. Louis, Dec. 12 (AP)—Edward Raymond Stanky steps gingerly into his new role as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals today confronted by a novel problem. Can he win a starting position on his own team?

It's definite, says the former New York Giants' second baseman, that he will serve as a playing manager. However, the "ifs, buts and maybes" begin to pile up when he's asked where he will insert himself in the Redbird lineup.

With only a few short hours of experience as a manager (he signed a two-year contract with owner Fred Saigh around supper time yesterday) Stanky says he isn't ready to make that decision yet. Or any others for that matter.

The deal that brought Stanky to the Cardinals to replace the ousted Marty Marion as manager has been kicked around for a few months now. Yet it took almost three hours of actual conference between Eddie and Saigh to agree to terms.

Saigh held out for a one-year term, two years at the maximum. Eddie originally wanted a three-year contract. For giving up their peppery second baseman, the National League pennant winners received veteran pitcher Max Lanier and outfielder Chuck Dierling from the Cards.

As for the price tag Saigh placed on Stanky's services, it's anybody's guess. But the baseball men who say they know about such things place it at about $32,500 a year.

KAZMAIER IS 'BACK OF YEAR'

New York, Dec. 12 (AP)—Dick Kazmaier, Princeton's dynamic All-America tailback, today was named Back of the Year in the Associated Press' poll of sportswriters and sportscasters.

The slender, 21-year old triple threat from Maumee, O., won in a landslide. He was picked up by 76 of the 125 writers and radio men from coast to coast who participated in the poll.

Closest to the Tiger terror was Hank Lauricella, Tennessee's superb All-America tailback. Lauricella was selected by 13 voters.

The two are like peas in a pod. Both are triple threats, 21, tailbacks on all-winning single wing teams and are built along the same lines. Kazmaier is 5-11 and weighs 171. Lauricella, from New Orleans, stands 5-10 and weighs 160.

Third, with seven votes, was Johnny Bright, the negro back from Drake. Bright, who holds the record for yardage gained in a college career, was put out of action with a broken jaw in the game with Oklahoma A&M and lost a chance to repeat as the 1951 leader in total yardage. That honor went to Kazmaier, with 1,827 yards.

Bright was followed by Washington's Hugh McElhenry (6), and Baylor's Larry Isbell (5) and Kentucky's Babe Parilli (5). San Francisco's Ollie Matson received four votes.

Kazmaier, a two-time All-America, already has won the Maxwell and Heisman awards as the player of the year.

Favor Charles To Beat Maxim Tonight

San Francisco, Dec. 12 (AP)—Ezard Charles, who confidently expects to regain the heavyweight crown next year, is a 1 to 3 favorite to defeat light heavyweight champion Joey Maxim in a 12 round fight tonight.

The charity exhibition, in the Cow Palace, will be televised coast to coast, excluding this area, at 7 p.m. (10 p.m., EST) to catch eastern viewers. It also will be broadcast.

It will be the fifth meeting of the pair. Charles won all four previous bouts by decisions, including 15 round defense of his title before Jersey Joe Walcott knocked him out this year.

Both fighters are at peak condition. Maxim, who trained at nearby Santa Rosa, looked impressive against heavier sparmates. He is a master boxer and lacks only a real punch to become a menace in the heavyweight ranks.

Pittsburgh, Dec. 12 (AP)—The University of Pittsburgh's athletic committee put off naming a new head football coach until after Saturday when dedication ceremonies of a $1,300,000 field house are planned.

The committee met briefly yesterday and received a report from Tom Hamilton, athletic director, that 50 job candidates have applied. Hamilton piloted the Pitt team this year as temporary coach after Len Casanova resigned.

The Lewis and Clark expedition is believed to have taken the first white men to the Yellowstone Park area in 1807.

Will Operate On Injured Grid Star

New York, Dec. 12 (AP)—Doctors at New York university—Bellevue medical center are planning to operate today on Johnny Yuha, injured Pennsylvania schoolboy football star.

A hospital spokesman said the operation would be a laminectomy—an attempt to relieve the pressure on the spinal cord—but that it would not restore full use of his body.

Yuha, 17, suffered a broken neck and two fractured vertebrae Nov. 3 while playing halfback with Elders Ridge high school against Bell Township high school.

He was brought to the hospital here Dec. 3 in a critical condition. He remained on the critical list today.

DEMOCRATIC CHAIRMAN HAS UNUSUAL WAYS

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—Maybe it's because he's rich and doesn't need the job and so feels free to speak as he pleases. Or maybe he's just new to the ways of Washington, or just an unusual man anyway.

But Frank E. McKinney, the Democrats' new political field general, is developing the habit of putting the pronoun "I" ahead of the President when he makes a speech or talks to reporters.

This 46-year-old Irishman, an Indianapolis banker, was chosen last October as new chairman of the Democratic National committee which has the job of trying to get the Democrats re-elected next year.

Scandals Don't Help

He couldn't have had the job without the blessing of President Truman who is still boss of the Democrats, with McKinney now his No. 1 right-hand man in politics.

Anyone in McKinney's job, of course, is going to have his hands full and his job isn't made easier by the scandals which have been coming to light in Mr. Truman's administration.

It's generally acknowledged the Trumanites will have to do some house cleaning before election time. McKinney publicly stated his awareness of the problem in a speech late in November.

Went To See President

He said then "any man who betrays the people's trust in public office is a public enemy." He promised "no malefactor in public office shall go unpunished." And then he added: "I am ready to help—and, what is more important, Harry S. Truman is ready to help."

The fact that in this revelation about the administration's intentions he put the letter "I" ahead of the President may have been due entirely to his particular style in composition. And, too, he tempered it by noting that Mr. Truman's attitude was more important.

But yesterday, with the tax scandals getting more unpleasant by the hour, McKinney went to see the President in the White House.

Didn't Follow Custom

It's usual when one of Mr. Truman's lieutenants confers with him—if they've agreed on some important decision—for the caller to keep quiet so the President can make the announcement in his own way. This reluctance of White House callers to discuss what "I said to the President and what he said to me" always allows the President—if no one knows what was talked about—to change his mind privately.

But when McKinney came out of the White House he was surrounded by reporters.

It may be that he was unaware of the White House custom just mentioned or that he was just too steamed up by the developing scandals to keep his lip buttoned.

Two Possibilities

He promptly told newsmen he had advised Mr. Truman that he could not overemphasize the importance of "drastic action in the immediate future—without delay. I'm inclined to think there will be action soon."

Perhaps it was planned that way. Perhaps the President told McKinney to go ahead and tell the world the White House was going to lower the boom.

It's possible, too, that it didn't happen that way and that Mr. Truman doesn't appreciate McKinney's telling reporters he, McKinney, has told the President what to do or even that the President intended doing anything.

ALLIES LOSE 900 PLANES; FOE 300

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—The Air Force says the United States and its Allies in Korea have lost nearly 900 planes, while Communist losses as confirmed by the air force amount to 300 planes.

Those totals included 317 non-combat Allied losses. But, the air force said, they did not include Red planes classed as "probable" kills, or Red losses from non-combat causes.

For that and other reasons, the air force said, the ratio of United Nations to Communist losses in the air was not as unfavorable as the announced three-to-one figures made it seem.

Other reasons the air force gave were:

U. N. planes have been in action since fighting started in Korea over 19 months ago, while the Communists took to the air in significant numbers only in the last eight or nine months.

U. N. fliers make many low-level attacks in support of troops, risking heavy opposing fire from the ground, while Red fliers stay high.

The air force said its Far East command reported the loss of 365 aircraft, through November, due to enemy action.

The navy reported it lost 215 carrier-based navy and marine planes as the result of enemy action through October 1. That included 50 missing planes.

Additionally, the navy reported the loss of 317 planes in non-combat accidents. That added up to 897 Allied planes lost.

TRUMAN ANGRY AND READY TO CLEAN HOUSE

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—Democratic predictions that President Truman is angrily ready to clean house in the government tax scandals and that they won't be a big issue in 1952, drew sharp replies from Republicans today.

"It's just wishful thinking on his part," said Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) of the White House statements by Democratic Chairman Frank E. McKinney. "It's an issue and it's going to stay an issue."

Senator Nixon (R.-Calif.) commented: "So McKinney thinks the raft and political influence oozing from under so many doorways won't be an issue—I guess I've heard everything now. It's going to take a lot of Democratic ingenuity to convince the American people of that."

Concerned And Angry

Ferguson and Nixon talked to reporters after McKinney had emerged from a half-hour conference yesterday with Mr. Truman and reported: 1. "The President is very aware of the situation and he is highly concerned. And he is angry over being sold down the river by some isoyal employees of the government."

2. "As the situation has been handled by Democrats, cleaned up by Democrats and Democrats have acted to remove the guilty as fast as they have been discovered, I am of the opinion that this will not be an issue of the 1952 campaign."

Senator Nixon, in his reply to McKinney's statements, disputed the thought that Democrats can take credit for cleaning up a government mess. "It has been the press and congressional committees—in which Republicans carried a lot of the work burden—which have brought about these disclosures," he said.

McGrath Silent

Senator Ferguson proposed that President Truman give FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover a free hand to investigate official wrongdoing, suggesting that in six months "he could do an awful lot to clean out these departments."

Ferguson added he saw no need to appoint a special prosecutor—one of the steps President Truman reportedly has under consideration. "If we are at the stage where we have to have a special prosecutor, then

SCHOOL ISSUES UP TO COURT

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—The supreme court will decide in the new year two controversial issues involving schools and religion.

The nine justices agreed yesterday to rule whether public schools violate the constitution by releasing students for religious instruction during regular school hours.

Previously, the court agreed to decide whether daily Bible reading in public schools is permissible under the constitution.

These school practices were protested in appeals to the highest tribunal filed by several parents. They insisted that such acts by public schools tend to break down the separation of church and state required by the constitution's first amendment.

To Argue Both

The supreme court yesterday ordered both cases argued at the same time. The argument session probably will be scheduled for February. The final decision likely will come in the spring. Appeal papers said millions of school children will be affected.

The appeal dealing with "released time" religious instruction was filed by two New York city mothers. The program as operated in that city permits release of children from classes one hour a week, for religious instruction elsewhere. The students receive the kind of religious instruction specified by their parents. Children whose parents do not request such religious study remain in public school for regular classes.

The appeal questioning daily Bible reading was filed by two New Jersey parents. They opposed a New Jersey law which requires the reading of at least five verses from the Old Testament each school day. It also permits, but does not require, the recitation of the Lord's prayer. Programs similar to these are used in many states throughout the country.

Would Boost Loan Capacity of GSA

Harrisburg, Dec. 12 (AP)—The House today received a Senate-passed bill increasing the general state authority's borrowing capacity by $60 million.

The Senate voted 44-4 in favor of the bill last night. It would permit the state's borrow-and-build agency to increase its bonded indebtedness from $175 million to $235 million. Some $25 million in GSA funds would be earmarked for flood control and the remainder for other projects.

The bill was introduced in the assembly last week after the federal government refused to give funds to aid in construction of flood control dams on the first fork of the Sinnemahoning creek in Clinton county. An estimated $10 million is required to start construction on the first dam.

New Bill Offered On Antlerless Deer

Harrisburg, Dec. 12 (AP)—Legislation before the Senate today would restrict issuance of antlerless deer hunting licenses solely on the county level.

Under present law, 40 percent of such licenses are issued by the state Revenue Department and the remaining 60 percent by the county agents.

The new bill, introduced last night, also would increase the license fee for antlerless deer hunting from $1.10 to $1.15. The additional five cents would go to the county issuing agents.

Sens. Montgomery F. Crowe (R.-Monroe) and Samuel B. Wolfe (R.-Union) are co-sponsors of the measure, which won immediate approval of the Senate's committee on forests and waters, game and fish.

ARRAIGN YOUTH IN MURDER CASE

Mentrose, Pa., Dec. 12 (AP) — Joseph Dibalo, 20, of Uniondale, Pa., has been ordered into Susquehanna county court today for arraignment on a charge of murder.

He is accused of shooting to death 44-year-old Anthony Shema, of Forest City, in a remote mountain-side woods near Elkdale on Monday. State police, who arrested Dibalo yesterday, said he admitted the slaying.

State Policemen Charles Davis and A. W. Rogers said Dibalo told them he hitched a ride in Shema's automobile, promised to show Shema a good place to hunt, and then stopped at his Uniondale home to pick up a rifle.

The policemen quoted Dibalo as saying that when they reached the dense woods, some 12 miles from Carbondale, he fired a bullet into Shema's head from the back. Davis and Rogers said the avowed motive for the shooting was to obtain Shema's car.

They related that Dibalo drove to New York state in the stolen car and abandoned it near Binghamton. Investigation by New York state troopers led to Dibalo's arrest at his home.

Authorities said Dibalo was released from the state reformatory at Huntingdon last June after serving three years on charges of burglary and arson.

HALUSKA IS WILLING FOR LIE DETECTOR

Harrisburg, Dec. 12 (AP) — Perjury implications today grew out of Senate testimony concerning charges by Sen. John J. Haluska (D-Cam-bria) that he was offered $750 and state patronage if he would back the income tax bill.

Haluska immediately offered to undergo a lie detector test to prove the truth of his testimony.

At least two senators said perjury apparently was committed during the three-hour hearing into Haluska's charges yesterday by a special Senate investigating committee.

Perjury Apparent

Sen. Albert Pechan (R-Armstrong), a committee member, said "the conflicting statements indicate that perjury was committed here." Sen. Edward Kessler (R-Lancaster) told a newsman: "It sounds to me like somebody perjured himself." Sen. James S. Berger (R-Potter), chairman of the investigating committee, admitted there were "contradictions" in the testimony, but declined to comment on the possibility of perjury prosecutions.

He said the committee would go over the testimony in detail and publish a report on its findings.

Haluska, meanwhile, was ousted from his job as Democratic whip in the wake of his testimony before the committee.

Ouster Is Unanimous

Shortly after he made public his bribery and patronage charges, the Senate Democratic caucus met and voted unanimously to relieve him from the post. Sen. Frank W. Ruth (D-Berks) was named his successor.

After the announcement was made on the floor last night, Haluska told the Senate: "I would not continue as minority whip as long as the senator from Westmoreland county would serve as minority leader."

Haluska told the Senate investigating committee that Sen. John H. Dent, Democratic floor leader, approached him with a patronage offer.

Dent replied simply: "I wish to announce to the Senate that I'm still the minority leader."

His statement hinted that his fellow Democrats gave him a vote of confidence while ousting Haluska.

"Perjury Not Mine"

"Senator Dent told me that should I go along with the state income tax, I would receive 50 state jobs under my control without outside sponsorship," Haluska testified.

He said also that Dent approached him in the role of intermediary and offered him $750 to support the income tax. On that occasion, Haluska said, Dent acted as a go-between Haluska and Sen. M. Harvey Taylor (Dauphin) Senate president pro tempore and GOP state chairman. Both Dent and Taylor promptly denied the charges.

Informed of the perjury issue raised by Pechan and Kessler, Haluska told a newsman: "I am convinced myself that perjury was committed during the hearing, but it wasn't by me."

The lowest spot in the United States is Inyo, Calif. It is 280 feet below sea level.

GROWING EMERGENCY FUEL

Farm families with sufficient and suitable land may render themselves self-sustaining in heating and cooking fuel by proper planning and management of woodlots and small forests. And in attaining this important end they may at the same time build up a valuable timber reserve for posts, poles and lumber for future farm use and for marketing as annual cash crops.

"But why bother with wood as fuel when coal is so easily obtainable?" asks the man who has not considered all the practical phases of this subject. At least six pertinent facts should be known in answering this question:

1. Rural as well as urban families that depend on coal as fuel must face the stern truth that they are at all times at the whims and fancies of labor leaders who reign as czars over coal miners and may bring long strikes to gain their ends.

2. Both coal and fuel must be transported chiefly by railroads except near navigable water, and prolonged war, as experienced in World Wars I and II, may conceivably bring about a complete cessation of fuel transportation for residential use.

3. During a serious business depression the family that has an adequate supply of wood fuel on the farm will enjoy independence without any outlay excepting labor.

4. With the return of fireplaces to popularity in modern houses, demands for firewood exceed available supplies. Therefore, the wise land owner may build up an excellent source of revenue by developing forests and at the same time provide profitable work for slack periods around the year.

5. In stimulating growth of high quality timber trees it is necessary to thin out crowding trees and remove defective and otherwise poor-grade specimens. From these sources flows a sustained supply of usable fuel wood.

6. And only a superficial investigation of conditions is needed to indicate that we should develop a dependable pulpwood industry on American farms. Our newspapers and publishers in general are now dependent on foreign sources of paper, pulpwood and wood pulp. This indefensible shortage may at some not distant date be used by proponents of totalitarian principles to thwart our traditional freedom of the press. Growing pulpwood may, therefore, not only create a profitable revenue sideline on the farm, but it may contribute a bulwark against state welfare influences which even now would seek to curtail that freedom of expression without which we would be helpless.

In growing timber for building purposes there is a considerable bulk of trees not suitable for lumber but which may be utilized for posts, mine props, poles and pulpwood. And after these possible markets are satisfied there still remains no small quantity of timber excellent for fuel. It is for planning such a well rounded program of forestry that individual farmers should take immediate steps. For after all, if this important goal of self-sufficiency in timber is ever reached it will be attained mainly through individual efforts and not through the cumbersome and costly bungs of federal erally directed efforts.

The editor will be glad to discuss related problems with readers who write him.

SIX TREES WORTH PLANTING

Inquiries from readers in the past year indicate an awakened interest in small-scale forestry to enhance farm real estate values and to provide a sideline source of future farm revenue. Most of these readers seek advice on the kinds of trees to plant. Of course, there are several, but here we briefly discuss six — Black locust, persimmon, dogwood, black walnut, hickory and sugar maple.

Black Locust — Here is a hardy tree whose timber is in wide demand for fence posts, mine props and other roles requiring a sturdy wood that can be grown relatively fast and thereby hold costs within a reasonable level. At the same time the grower finds that black locust trees are inexpensive to start, hold spots for escaping by erosion, check gullying and otherwise put idle, badly worn land to "work" producing a revenue crop. It is listed first here because we are convinced it is the best money-making trees for general farm planting.

Persimmon — This is a badly neglected tree, yet its fine-grained wood is in demand wherever a hardwood timber is needed, such as for making textile mill shuttles, shoe lasts, golf club heads, and many other sporting goods. It grows well even on thin soil and its fruits are second only to dates in protein value.

Dogwood — Timber of this tree is in demand for about the same group of reasons that persimmon timber is needed. Few other timbers are more widely sought for by timber buyers. The supply has not satisfied demands for decades and is now almost dwindled to insignificance. Dogwoods are relatively free from widespread diseases and attacking insects.

Black Walnut — This dual-value tree is a peer among all timber species because its beautifully grained lumber is so widely popular in furniture manufacture. And while the tree grows in timber value it bears profitable crops of salable nuts every year. Black walnut is perhaps the most outstanding tree in this latitude to withstand droughts.

Hickory — Closely resembling the black walnut, various kinds of hickory trees produce an excellent and almost indispensable timber while at least two species bear valuable nut crops. No timber grown in this part of the world is so widely demanded for tool handles, farm machinery, and many other roles calling for a close-grained, stout texture.

Sugar Maple — As mentioned here recently, the sugar maple is in a class by itself among native trees because it produces one of the most delectable food products known by civilized man. That it is rapidly facing toward extinction is a frightening thought and a fact that should spur every farmer to plant at least a few specimens in suitable idle nooks over the farm. As an investment in "block" planting it appears reasonable to assume that sugar maples will greatly enhance land values wherever they are started.

Black locust, dogwood, and persimmon trees should be planted in groups to stimulate development of straighter and otherwise higher grade timber trunks. This is also true of black walnut and the hickories although both of these nut trees thrive in individual sites or in small groupings. The sugar maple does best in groups where the ground retains a continual mulch of accumulated leaves and remains moist and shaded.

TIMELY FACTS FOR POULTRYMEN

Ample ventilation, even in the coldest weather, is important in the poultry house to carry off surplus moisture released from droppings and in the exhaled breath of the birds.

It is a difficult task to ventilate single-walled houses. In fact, it is an impractical undertaking to raise poultry in houses without double, insulated walls.

Rats may carry fowl contagion from farm to farm. Safety as well as feeding economy sets a "must" pattern of complete rat control. Killing the enemies is the best method; rat-proofing of poultry houses is a secondary precaution.

Lights should be adjusted to give hens a 14-hour work day before they naturally go to roost in the evening. The equipment must be adjusted accordingly as days grow shorter and the birds tend to take to their roosts earlier in the afternoon.

"Why can't lights be used in the evening to lengthen the hen's day?" is a question the editor must answer frequently at this time of the year. The answer is simple. If lights are used to lengthen the day in the afternoon instead of in the morning, it will be necessary to turn the lights off to allow hens to go to roost. Under that condition they cannot find the roost. Therefore, morning lighting is the only solution.

If mash consumption is not normal when the weather is cold, a feeding of wet mash in the middle of the day is advisable. On this point it is important to remember that grain is fed to regulate the weight of laying hens, mash to round out a ration that makes possible the "manufacture" of eggs. Therefore, the consumption of mash must be kept normal at this time of the year. The extra wet feeding usually solves the difficulty.

In addition to alfalfa leaf meal in the mash, a daily supply of green feed is a wise investment in flock health as well as in sustained egg production. Cabbage, lettuce, kale or other green leafy vegetables, well cured alfalfa or clover hay with most of the leaves retained, or chopped carrots will serve in this vital role. The carrots are recommended among "green" feeds because they supply the valuable carotene which furnishes vitamin A, a material they otherwise obtain mainly from green feed.

To keep water or liquid consumption sufficiently high in cold weather to nourish the bodies of laying hens it may be advisable

To avoid fires in the home during the Christmas season, a time when fires increase all over the U.S., the National Board to feed liquid milk occasionally. Or water may be slightly heated when temperatures are low.

It is a wise poultry owner that listens quietly at the poultry house door in late evening for sneezing—often a sign of flock danger. Colds belong among what are known as deficiency diseases. When sneezing indicates incipient colds, it may be well to inspect the mash bag label and to make certain the feed is well balanced. Of course, cod-liver oil must be included.

At least a small brood of chicks started in early January or the last week in December bring broilers to market age at Easter time. For the poultryman who owns a comfortable brooder house and stove the task is little more difficult than starting chicks during the drastically changing weather conditions in March. Day-old chicks should be purchased because incubator operation in winter is often the major problem of small flock owners.
